

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to electronic information access systems, methods of creation and related commercial models. Additionally, a mouse over navigation interface is provided for user selectable viewing of a desired display.